MGS 2023 IS A SALES EVENT!

Selling Guidelines:

MGS will enhance the consumer experience, by not restricting any sales at the venue. Exhibitors individually decide how best to sell at the show. It is envisaged that wholesalers will have retail partnerships in place at the show that will enable them to facilitate sales. They may;

- Supply stock to a retail exhibitor under the normal course of business for the show
- Nominate exhibiting retailers as you see fit to sell products through, or have exhibiting retailers spend time on your stand
- It is intended that by having retailers take stands, they can be in a position to represent one or numbers of participating suppliers, as well as sell their own stock displayed.

The sale of musical instruments can be made under the following conditions;

- Each exhibitor may make sales online via web and/or mobile eftpos. Wi-Fi will be available in the building. Cash and cheque sales can also be made. In either case a valid receipt identifying the seller, must be issued.
- Each sale will be acknowledged by an administrative procedure to be advised. The MGS will provide a security service to secure the building, and ensure that instruments leaving the building are doing so legitimately
- There will be an area where stock may be stored. The amount of stock per exhibitor will be limited and an administrative procedure will apply to stock retrieval. As space requirements for the show become evident from stand demand, we will be able to advise the stock space per exhibitor.
- The AMA will not intervene in the exhibitor/customer relationship, or have any responsibility for sales, other than to provide a system whereby goods can be authorised to leave the premises.
- The show is not restricted to Victorian or Melbourne based retailers.

Please note:

The exhibitor may choose to sell onsite at the show or not.

PROMOTION OF SALES AND SPECIAL OFFERS

In cooperation with the exhibitor the #MGS2023 will promote exhibitors' special offers at the Show on social media channels.

MGS PROMOTIONAL PROGRAM

Media & Promotion

#MGS2023 will up the ante to build on the great attendances of the past couple of years.

AustralianMusician.com.au and our social media networks will again be a key media source for the MGS message.

Radio, street press and online news sources will again be utilised to promote the show.

The AMA has engaged On The Map PR to again profile the show through traditional media and social media and online channels. The combined resources of the individual participants of the show will be leveraged to maximise public attendance.

We will work as hard as ever to ensure maximum attendance and attractions.

Social Media

The industry's various social media assets will be leveraged through a targeted social media strategy and campaign. 60+% of our attendance in 2019 heard about the show through social media, a lot of that engagement was achieved with the support of our exhibitors.

This is a prime resource – one that we will focus on laser-like in 2023.

Exhibitors Play Your Part by Extending Our Reach to Your Customers Too!

The #MGS2023 will provide materials for participants to reach into their channels – we must make this a condition of participation. This is an industry effort! Resources will be provided to exhibiting businesses to distribute via instore or to their customer database. We will support your social media program targeted to your social media network about your participation in the show.

Endorsees, Performers

Are there any Big names we can add this year? The AMA will work with member exhibitors that wish to consider presenting any international or local artists that will enhance interest in and attendance to the #MGS2023. Exhibitors wishing to submit any product endorsed artists to appear at the show, should advise us as soon as possible, so that we may find a way to include them in the program and take advantage of any further publicity opportunities.

Live entertainment facilities are proposed on the mezzanine and on Level 2 indoors. Any company wishing to profile any audio products on the live stage and other seminar rooms and so on, are also most welcome to express your interest.

Exhibitor Promotions

Any competitions proposed by exhibitors using the MGS branding must have the appropriate statutory approvals.

Trade Promotion Permit Guidelines in Victoria:

- Games of Skill do not require a permit
- Promotions which have an element of chance and have a total prize value of over $5000 will require a permit

Any proceeds of the Melbourne Guitar Show after staging costs go to the Australian Music Association, a registered incorporated association and therefore not-for-profit. Proceeds, if any, are used to provide services to the Australian music products industry, with a focus on member services, advocacy for music education and promotion of music making to the public.
